What does the participant get?

- Cutting-edge online courses tailored to the needs of managers, decision-makers and young executives
- Understanding of today's challenging topics in management, development and globalization
- Tutors supporting rather than teaching, facilitating rather than instructing
- Modern learning technology – flexible, reliable and easy-to-use, interactive learning
- A global community that can support your ideas for change in your region
- A certificate upon successful completion of a tutored online course

Fees & Grants

The course fees range from around €50 for self-study modules up to €300 for high-level tutored online courses. Scholarships are available to eligible specialists and managers from developing and emerging markets for selected courses on application.

Please note that the E-Academy is not a commercially marketed product. Its content is normally available free of charge. We do, however, charge for course participation, tutorial support and external expertise.

Who we are

The E-Academy belongs to the Deutsche Gesellschaft für Internationale Zusammenarbeit (GIZ) GmbH, which supports the German government in achieving its goals in international cooperation for sustainable development. Its operations include international education work around the globe dedicated to human resource development, advanced training, and dialogue.
